The Let's Be Nice to the Ocean Movement

Let's Be Nice to the Ocean is a participatory process for all ocean voices. Since its launch in November 2023, it has grown into a powerful movement with numerous civil society entities joining as associated stakeholders, all committed to making ocean protection the norm and not the exception.

The Let's Be Nice to the Ocean movement aims to increase ambition at the 3rd UN Ocean Conference in Nice, France in 2025, through innovative approaches to ocean governance and in support of the Protection Principle.

- Fostering sustainable fisheries management and supporting small-scale fisheries
- Conserving, sustainably managing and restoring marine and coastal ecosystems including deep-sea ecosystems
- Harnessing all forms of cooperation, especially at the regional level
- Tackling marine pollution in all of its forms
- Leveraging ocean-climate-biodiversity interlinkages
- Enabling sustainable ocean-based economies, that leave no one behind
- Promoting sustainable food production from the ocean to address food security
- Increasing scientific knowledge and the science-policy interface for ocean health
- Enhancing the conservation and sustainable use of oceans and their resources by implementing international law as reflected in the UNCLOS and its implementing agreements
- Mobilizing finance for ocean actions in the support of SDG14

Facilitadores: Australia & Cabo Verde

We must protect the ocean because the ocean is protecting us
